The Dike and Torrance families became closely connected when three members of the eighth generation of the Dike family married three of the fourth generation of the Torrance family; Rufus Dike and his sisters Abigail and Rhoda married Mary Ann Torrance and her brothers James and Hugh. The name Dike has been spelled various ways, such as Dyke, Dykes, and Dyché; the Torrance name has had a variety of spellings such as Torrens, Torens, Torrence. A man living in Washington, D. C., claimed that the name came from the Spanish Torrences and that the family went from Spain to Holland, then to the British Isles. There is evidence that the family in Scotland came from Holland, the first one coming to the British Isles with William the Conqueror. The name Robert Torrence occurs frequently in Scotch history.

The author of this article has written authority from the New England Historic Genealogical Society to use the following information from a paper read before the Society by the Rev. Samuel W. Dike on January 6, 1904, entitled "Captain Anthony Dike" by Rev. Samuel Dike, LL.D., Auburndale, Massachusetts.¹

The first mention of Captain Anthony Dike is in the list of passengers of the Ann, which reached Plymouth in July, 1623. Among his fellow passengers were John Oldham, Christopher Conant, and probably his brother Roger Conant, though no record of the latter's coming has been found. The only other mention of him in the Plymouth Colony is in connection with the division of land in 1625, where Anthony Dike is one of several whose lots "butt against Hobbs Hole," which soon after and now is known as Wellingsley--a hamlet on the south side of Plymouth. It is a mile or so from Plymouth Rock. That he is not mentioned in the division of cattle in 1627 is explained by the probable fact that he was in the company that left Plymouth for Nantasket. The next record of him is that in the list of freemen in the colony of Massachusetts Bay, which, it will be remembered, was entirely distinct from Plymouth Colony. This list is that of May, 1637, which includes the name of Anthony Dixe and such of his associates as Conant, Palfrey, Foxwell, and John Oldham, who at an early date went through the woods from Salem to Charlestown.

Revised 7/24/8-1977

It was this Roger Conant, together with Walter Palfrey and Francis Johnson, that Anthony Dike became intimately associated by a partnership for the purpose of trade, which they formed about or prior to 1630; this trade was largely in furs gathered from, or rather by, the Indians in Maine, and perhaps corn from Virginia. They had a trading house at Blue Point, near Saco, Maine, which they sold three years afterward, together with debts due from Indians, to Richard Foxwell, provided the Massachusetts authorities should confirm the bargain, which they did. But Foxwell neglected payment and on his coming to Salem in 1654 he was sued by the company and judgment secured against him. It is probable that the trade of the four partners reached the Connecticut River, which began to be open to Europeans at that time. Anthony Dike was the Master of the little vessel in which this trade was carried on, and the next reference was to his capture by the Indians on the coast of Maine, probably near Pemaquid. Governor Winthrop and Piner both refer to this capture, but Captain Roger Clap, in his memoirs, gives the fullest account of this affair, which he says he had from Dike's own lips. Capt. Clap wrote:

"They having taken one Anthony Dike, a Master of a vessel, did endeavor to persuade him to pilot them to Virginia, but he would not." He was then released or, as some think, was allowed to escape. Goodwin in his Pilgrim Republic says that he was also reimbursed. This affair seems to imply that Capt. Dike was familiar with the coast of Virginia. Later he was sent by Gov. Winthrop in a ship called a pinnance with twenty men to capture some pirates, the first affair with pirates in the New England coast colonies.

This article by Dr. Dike goes on to give accounts of the troubles with the Indians, and Palfrey says in his History of New England that in 1633 enterprises of discovery and trade began to be undertaken; that in September of that year John Oldham and three companions found their way to Connecticut, and that the Blessing of the Bay looked into the Connecticut River, visited the Dutch settlement at the mouth of the Hudson, and bartered their commodities for some beaver furs.

There is much more given in this reference by Dr. Dike, including the record of his death, briefly this: The Blessing of the Bay was driven considerably out of its course in a great storm on December 15, 1638. Governor Winthrop makes a note of this in his Journal, saying it was the worst storm he ever knew on that coast. There were five or seven persons on the ship; most of them left, but Capt. Dike and one or two others refused to leave the ship, and they perished either by drowning or freezing.

Such is the story, so far as existing material gives the data for it, of a life of fifteen years, from 1623 to 1638, in the new settlements and on the sea, probably from Maine to Virginia. Enough of the details are known, however, to establish the right of Anthony Dike to an honorable place beside Gallop and Oldham as the useful and daring seaman of the infant colony. Nothing has been found that connects Anthony Dike with any place or events before this.

Of his immediate family we find mention only of his wife and eldest son Anthony. Salem in town meeting June 8, 1639 granted to Nathaniel Pitman--Pickman seems to be the correct spelling--"a portion of land neere about 20 acres lying next unto the widow Dike's land on the South side of Forrest River." Some time after this it would seem, Mr. Pickman married the widow and succeeded to Captain Dike in the business of the four partners. This comes out in a suit at law that was brought by the other partner against Foxwell, and which they won, to recover the value of some furs which had been entrusted to him for sale. The deposition is as follows: This I Tabitha Pittman of Salem, doe testify that my husband Dike's last going away from me when he was taken away at Cape Codd by the hard winter being the last words he ever spake to me he said--"wife when thee hast paid Peter Palfrey such a sum (but at present I know not the amount) then there is owing to thee from Richard Foxwell on the bills: three and twenty pounds or thereabouts and all for each partner and that it was due and owing to them at the date of the bills." Further evidence of this marriage comes later in deeds of land by his son Anthony to "his father-in-law Nathaniel Pickman."

Anthony Dike (2). Of the children of Captain Anthony Dike I find traces of only one son but the evidence about this one is clear though brief. On 12:10 mo.: 1876 Anthony Dike, marrener, wife Margery A. Dike deeds to one "Holmes two acres of land next to the land of Nathaniel Pickman." In a deed recorded "21:8:1878" but acknowledged 15:10 mo.:1870, "Anthony Dike deeds to father-in-law Nathaniel Pickman all land to me Anthony Dike as eldest son of my father Anthony Dike deceased."

The births of the children of Anthony (2) are evidently all, with a possible exception, on record in Salem. Anthony, son of Anthony by Margery his wife, born 24th March, 1866. Nathanyell, their son borne 25th 10th Month, 1667. Daughter Margery borne the 16th the 6th mo., 1669. Jonathan 28th March 1673. Their daughter Mary borne 1675. Son Benjamin borne 22nd 12th mo., 1679-80. The possible exception is that Mr. Henry F. Waters has added a footnote saying that there was a daughter Charity who married John Alford.

1. Anthony (sometimes recorded as Antho) married Tabitha Pittman or Pickman, and they had one son also named Anthony, born at Ipswich, Massachusetts, a "marrener"; he died prior to Sept. 25, 1879.

2. The second Anthony left a widow and a son; her name according to administration papers was Margery and the son Nathaniel (recorded as Nathanyell).¹

This ends the material from Dr. Samuel Dike's paper.

3. Nathaniel was born Oct. 25, 1667, at Ipswich, Massachusetts; he married Mary Thomson,² and then later moved to Sutton, Massachusetts.

4. Daniel, son of Nathaniel, was born at Marlboro, Massachusetts, baptized on April 10, 1709; married Mary Witt on September 26, 1734³; she died August 6, 1785, and he died February 18, 1787.

5. Daniel, son of 4. Daniel, was born at Sutton, Massachusetts, May 28, 1738⁴; he married Mary Pratt, Oxford, Massachusetts, on January 17, 1760⁵. She was born on November 17, 1738. He was a Revolutionary soldier⁶; after the War he moved to Vermont where he was killed on August 6, 1788,⁷ on the banks of the White River by a falling tree. His children were: Daniel, born November 7, 1760; Sarah, July 15, 1762, married a Copeland; Rhoda, June 16, 1764, married Ephraim French; 6. Elias, born October 26, 1767; Mary, born June 13, 1769, married Elijah Strong; Samuel, born April 7, 1771, no further record; Catherine, born December 10, 1772, married Elijah Crane; John, born November 11, 1774, no further record.

6. Elias, son of 5. Daniel, was born in Sutton, Massachusetts, on October 26, 1767⁸; married Sarah (called Sally) Torrey about 1794; she was born at Stafford, Connecticut, October 16, 1765. They moved to Bethel, Vermont, where he died January 18, 1844, buried in Gilead Cemetery; she died in Bethel on April 28, 1851. Their children were: John West, born October 26, 1795; he became a Methodist minister; married Margaret Surrey on September 16, 1819; she died in November of 1826, leaving no children. He then married on May 27, 1832, Cylena Holbrook, born March 15, 1803, died November 10, 1882. Cylena was a sister of the Holbrook who later married John West's sister Willebe Dike.

Elias's second child was 7. Daniel, born December 7, 1796⁹; married Sally (probably Sarah) Martin, of Bethel, Vermont, June 6, 1821¹⁰; Daniel was born in Pittsfield, Massachusetts. Annah, born in Pittsfield, June 20, 1800, married Anson Lillie, born June 11, 1818, died November 15, 1850. David, born April, 1802, Pittsfield, married Mary Howe and had a daughter Mary Malinda Dike who married a Lemmon; Augustus, born November 7, 1804, died January 24, 1832; married Polly Southard, born October 26, 1805, died June 3, 1882, daughter of Benjamin and Cynthia Southard; their children were: Julius A., married Lucinda Dearing; Horace Meeker Dike (changed the spelling to Dyke while attending Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, Ohio), died from wounds received in the Civil War at Wilson's Creek, Missouri, and probably buried there; David Torrey Dike, married Esther Williams; Mary Jane Dike, died day of birth; Mary Dike, married John Granger October 23, 1860; died near Yankton, South Dakota (her second husband was Mr. Anderson).

Elias's child following Augustus was Willebe Dike, born in Bethel, Vermont, March 16, 1807, married Holbrook, November 12, 1835, died July 29, 1894. The last child of Elias was Mary Dike, called Polly, born in Bethel, Vermont, August 9, 1809; died May 11, 1840.

From here on only the descendants of 7. Daniel will be given in detail; many of the descendants of his brothers and sisters will be found in the numbered list in the appendix.

7. Daniel Dike, son of Elias and Sally Torrey Dike, married Sally Martin, Daughter of Rufus Martin, in Bethel, Vermont, June 6, 1821. She was born on May 2, 1797, died Aug. 3, 1877; he died December 30, 1886⁹; both died in Delaware, and are buried in Oak Grove cemetery there. On their monument is engraved the following inscription:

THE GENEALOGY OF THE TORRANCE FAMILY

The first Torrance to come to this country was Hugh Torrance, born October 10, 1701, in either County Antrim or County Londonderry, Ireland. He brought with him his wife Sarah, four stepchildren, and three of his own children. They came to Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, a large county at that time but has since been divided into several counties. They settled in Conococheague Settlement, which is now in Franklin County, countyseat Chambersburg. Since their three children were born in Ireland, the youngest in September, 1746, the family probably arrived here in the late 1740's. They very likely came here because so many of the Scotch-Irish had already settled in Cumberland County. The Torrances had gone to Ireland from Scotland, and there are some of the family still in Scotland.

Robert Torrance, in his book "Torrance and Allied Families" published in Philadelphia in 1938, gives this account of Hugh Torrance: "He settled in Hopewell Township, Cumberland County, Pennsylvania. Although advanced in years, he enlisted and fought valiantly in the Revolutionary War, receiving his honorable discharge at the remarkable age of 83." Robert Torrance got this information from Miss Elizabeth Harriet Torrance of Punxsutawny, Pa., who had her information from their old family Bible. At her death, she willed the family history material to her nephew, Frank Torrance, State College, Pa.; he died early in 1957, but his daughter has the material now, Mrs. Ruth Balthaser, Longmeadow 6, Massachusetts.

Another bit of interesting history is also given by Robert Torrance, of Dublin, Ireland, to the Glasgow Weekly a few years ago (1913), contained in the article by Miss Elizabeth Torrance as follows: Sir: - Referring to the recent mention in your widely circulated and much-read paper regarding the expected celebration of the 600th Anniversary of the Battle of Bannockburn, might I be allowed to suggest that the Torrance family be represented on that occasion, and thus keep fresh the memory of the two fishermen who saved the life of Robert the Bruce? The fact may not be generally known to Scotchmen, but for the timely arrival and help of these two Torrances, there might have been no Battle of Bannockburn, and the whole course of British History been different from what it is today." Then follows a short sketch of the circumstances.

Miss Torrance also writes: "In response to my letter of inquiry concerning the above mentioned article, Robert Torrence sent me the history of the family in Scotland. He was a Scotchman, but had been living in Ireland a number of years." Miss Torrance then gives the history of the name and the family. At the time of which she wrote the family seat was in County Antrim, Ulster. Their Coat of Arms is three empty candle sticks; motto, in Latin, "Deus Lumen Meum or Mum," which she interprets as "God is our, or my, Light." She also states that the name is well known in Holland.

Another one who was interested in looking up the family and getting the facts was Mr. J. Reed Torrance, who was the son of Joseph Torrance. So much for early history; now to the family in America.

Hugh Torrance's first wife (name not known) had four children: 1. Elizabeth, who married a Mr. McClintock, had fourteen children, four of whom were: Samuel, Hugh, Joseph, and Sarah who married Alex Clark, lived and died in Shenandoah Valley, left children. 2. Adam, who moved to North Carolina, was killed in the Revolutionary War. 3. Eleanor, married James Overstreet; had three children: William, Sally, Betsy. 4. George who was drowned in a creek near Littleton, Pa.

Hugh's second wife, also name not known, had no children. He then married Mrs. Sarah Cunningham, a widow with five children: Margaret married Joseph Huston; William married Margaret Nicholson; Barnet married Ann Wilson; Anna married Robert Clark; and Jane Cunningham, who lived with her mother and stepfather, and tenderly cared for her mother until the latter's death on May 12, 1781; she then married John Blair, and Hugh went to live with his daughter, Sarah Torrance McClintock, at Conococheague, Pa., where he died July 22, 1784, in his 84th year.

Hugh, by his marriage to Mrs. Cunningham, had three children: James, Hugh, and Sarah, who married Mr. McClintock, lived in Cumberland Co., died Oct. 19, 1806.

2-1. James, born Feb. 12, 1744, settled in Fayette County, Pa., married Mary McConnell, June 26, 1768. She was born Feb. 24, 1744. They had five children:

Hugh, b. June 29, 1770, married May 15, 1796, had children.

Alexander, b. Mar. 18, 1772, m. had two children, Paggey and Mary.

Prudence, b. Apr. 12, 1776, m. George Collins, d. Sept. 6, 1820, at

Mary McConnell died (date not given) and James married Margaret Stewart on Feb. 16, 1784. Margaret Stewart (sometimes written Mary) was born Oct. 10, 1761, and died May 18, 1848. They had ten children:

3-1. William, b. Nov. 18, 1784, settled in Brown County (countyseat Georgetown) Ohio; left children.

3-2. Sarah, b. Mar. 10, 1786; m. John Clark May 10, 1814; left children.

They had ten children: James, Sarah, Hugh, Mary Ann, Samuel Wilson, Aaron Barnett, Wm. Stewart, John, Alexander, and Boyd. The underscored names are Torrances who married the three Dikes -- see the Dike Section of this history.

3-5. Margaret, b. Apr. 3, 1791; d. Mar. 24, 1873; m. her cousin Hugh Torrance, of Westmoreland Co., Pa., as his second wife; they had no children and after Hugh's death she went to live with her step-daughter, Hannah Meaner, in Murrysaville, Pa., where she died.

3-6. Robert, b. Apr. 24, 1793; m. July 31, 1817; lived in Madison, Ind., left children.

3-7. Joseph Huston, b. Apr. 26, 1795; m. Rebecca Norris, had two children.

THE DIKE FAMILY TREE - FROM 1623

The number directly in front of a name is that person's own number; the number that is in the first column is the number of the person's Dike parent. If you will look on page 49, you will find 149.206 Ada Burdett Simon. The number 206 is Ada's own number. Now look up the second column until you come to 149 directly in front of Clara Burdett Ensor; in the first column is 94; look up the second column until you come to 94 which has 61.94, Jesse Torrance. Then you will find 61 in front of his mother's name, Abigail Dike; No. 46 is Abigail's father, Daniel Dike, the Revolutionary soldier. No. 27 is his father, Elias Dike; No. 15 is Elias's father Daniel; No. 3 is this Daniel's father Nathaniel; No. 2 is his father Anthony; and No. 1 is the first Anthony Dike, the one who came to Plymouth in 1623.

To find Ada's descendants, reverse the process; look down the first column for 206; you will find it eight times before the names of each of her children, but each child has his or her own number.
